

OUR AUTHORS

Aimar Ventsel, PHD, is senior researcher at University of Tartu, University of Warwick, UK. His research interests include Siberian, Sakha, and Dolgan studies, and more specifically ethnic processes, nation building, music and youth culture, property relations and social structure of youth cultures.

punkrock@folklore.ee

*

Art Leete, PHD, is professor at the University of Tartu. His research focus is modernization in the Russian North, religious changes among the Komi, etc.

art.leete@ut.ee

*

Toomas Lapp (1979–2010) was a doctoral student in Scandinavian Studies in the University of Tartu. He had been trained also in the universities of Copenhagen and Reykjavik. His doctoral dissertation was centered on the Faeroe Islands. He investigated the formation of Faeroese identity and the religious factor. He was a brilliant and inspiring teacher, a translator from Icelandic, and a very active promoter of Scandinavian cultures in Estonia through lectures, radio programs, etc.

*

Liivo Niglas is an ethnographic filmmaker and an ethnologist who has made films and conducted fieldwork in Siberia since 1996. He has mainly worked with Nenets and Forest Nenets reindeer herders in Western Siberia studying their way of life, worldview, and ways of resisting colonial policy.

liivon@gmail.com

*

Tatiana Safonova, PHD, is a researcher at Centre for Independent Social Research in Sankt Peterburg. Her research interests include the Evenki, religion, and shamanism.

*

István Sántha, PHD, is affiliated with the Hungarian Academy of Science. His research interests include the Evenki, religion, and shamanism.

istvansantha@gmail.com

*

Eva Toulouze, PhD hab, is associate professor in Finnish and Estonian studies in INALCO (Paris) and researcher at the University of Tartu. Her research interests focus on Finno-Ugric cultural studies, mainly on the development of written culture and ethnic identities, with stress on Udmurt and Forest Nenets cultures and on other connected questions: folklore, history of evangelisation, literature, education and intellectual life. Her fieldwork areas are the Volga region and Western Siberia. She is chief editor of the journal Études finno-ougriennes and chairman of the Association for the Development of Finno-Ugric studies (ADEFO, Paris).

eva.toulouze@ut.ee

*

Laur Vallikivi received PhD from the University of Cambridge (2011) and is currently researcher at the Department of Ethnology, University of Tartu. His main geographical area of interest is the Russian Arctic, especially the tundra of the nomadic Nenets reindeer herders where he has carried out extensive fieldwork. His research focuses on religious conversion, postsocialist change, language ideologies and personhood.

laur.vallikivi@ut.ee